Sea Chart,

With Rumbes expressed by right lines and degrees of latitude, euery where equall.

The Sea Chart is one of the especial Instrumentes that Mariners haue for theyr direction in sailing, so there is not any wherein there are so great and dangerous errors.

I For first, what places sooner are described therein, the length of them (from East to West) hath a greater proportion to the breadth (from North to South) than indeede it ought to haue (except it be at the æquinoctiall;) And so much the more this errour increaseth, by howe much the further distant those places are from the æquinoctiall: even as the proportion of the Meridian to the Paralell, increaseth the more, the nearer you come to either Pole; so that at the paralell of 60 degrees latitude, the proportion of the length to the breadth

Errour in the proportion of the length & breadth of places in the common sea charte.
