

CELESTIAL NAVIGATION

“The radio beam’s best effort cannot, to me, compare with the stark simplicity of the star navigator’s apparatus and methods. He depends on no fallible mass of electrickery and its human crew. In ‘this majestic roof, fretted with golden fire’ there are a million leading lamps trimmed by a steadier than mortal hand and located in eternity with divine exactitude.”