Google searches for “Lieutenant James O. Bohuslav United States” return AI summaries, mentioning variously :

- James Otto Bohuslav : Born 1921 in Illinois, died 2010
- a mention from newspaper archives of Lieutenant James O. Bohuslav reporting for duty at the Army Air Forces Advanced Flying School at Carlsbad, New Mexico (1943)
- Carlsbad being primarily for training bombardiers and navigators
- Airmen trained at Carlsbad were routinely posted to the European Theater to join the Eighth Air Force
- Captain James O. Bohuslav returning in 1948 after a year of duty in Japan and being posted to the 67th Reconnaissance Wing at March AFB
- James Otto Bohuslav was later known as Colonel James Otto Brent

A different one or two of the above AI comments appeared each time the Google search was made. Some are indicated to be sourced from www.myheritage.dk

There is a short life history of Colonel James Otto Brent at https://ancestors.familysearch.org/en/L8K1-YBT/col.-james-otto-brent-1921-2010

A Google search for James O. Bohuslav USAAF and selecting “Images” brings up a thumbnail photo of an officer in uniform, the photo being titled “James Brent Obituary (2010)”. Clicking on the photo brings up an obituary with a more detailed service record, including a passing mention of England :

https://obits.gazette.com/us/obituaries/gazette/name/james-brent-obituary?id=21821647

The website of the National Museum of the Mighty Eighth Air Force in Georgia indicates they have a veterans’ database, with an email address given :

https://www.mightyeighth.org/veteran-database/